

FOR ALL ZONES AND THE SCI OFFICE · ALL-INDIA

DHS — Dak Handling System

A single, topic-driven system for official correspondence, approvals and records — across every Zone and the SCI Office.

Topic-driven

Role-based

SCI forms

Office-scoped

The problem we set out to solve

Correspondence is topic-shaped

Every letter belongs to a Document Type and Subject — each with its own rules for who raises it, where it travels, who decides, which form rides along.

The rules live in people's heads

Routing, approval levels, thresholds and forms are applied by hand — differently from office to office, and zone to zone.

No single view of movement

Where a dak has reached, how long it has sat, what is pending with whom — answered today only by telephone.

No common standard

Each zone and the SCI Office work in their own way, with no shared system to hold it together.

→ DHS turns this into one topic-driven way of working — for every Zone and the SCI Office.

The topic drives everything

We propose defining correspondence as a catalogue of topics — each a Document Type → Subject — and letting the topic carry its own workflow. Choosing the topic is all the office does; the rest follows.

Who & where

Origin level, the office chain it travels, the terminal authority that decides.

How it closes

Information closes at the top; Approval returns the decision to the raiser — mode-based closure.

What rides with it

The mandatory SCI form(s), value thresholds that pick the approver, confidential / peer flags.

We define the topics & their workflows

- The catalogue is part of the solution. The Zonal Administrator defines each topic and the workflow it carries — no fixed inherited list.
- Configurable per zone. Where a zone works differently, its catalogue can differ — the engine is the same everywhere.
- Versioned. Editing a topic publishes a new version; dak already in flight keeps the version it began under.

One routing engine, read from the topic

- Office chain. A dak travels its own reporting line — this Satsang Place → its Area → its State → its Zone → SCI.
- Value decides the approver. On SCI-15, the nature and amount pick the terminal — State / Zone / SCI. Nothing is approved at Satsang Place or Area.
- Mode-based closure. Approval returns to the raiser; Information notes-and-closes at the top.
- Verified at approval. A one-time code (OTP) to the authority's registered email or mobile — not merely a prior sign-in.

Example — SCI-15 offer of items

Nothing is approved at Satsang Place or Area. State Office — capital up to ₹25,000, revenue up to ₹10,000. Zonal Office — capital up to ₹50,000, revenue up to ₹25,000. The terminal moves with the value, automatically.

Where a member's time actually goes

Four flows carry almost all the everyday work. The rest of the system exists to serve these — so we give them the most care.

1 • Dak Listing & its actions

The inbox members live in — read, reply, recommend, put up, approve, snooze, search. The busiest screen of all.

2 • New Dak creation

Raise a letter by choosing the topic; routing, forms and approver follow. Compose, attach, submit.

3 • Workflow

Seeing what is where — board, triage, ageing, workload, timeline — and acting on it.

4 • SCI form filling

The structured forms that ride with the dak — filled once, reused, locked at the right moment.

Roles, departments & offices

- Five core roles. Signing Authority, Office Staff, Special Status, Read-only, Zonal Administrator.
- Departments as flexible categories. Legal, Engineering, Accounting — any number — with sewadars as members who handle their type of dak.
- Every level, all-India. Places, areas, states, zones and the SCI Office — with peers, so correspondence up, down and sideways is genuine. (Offices shown are illustrative.)

A department member sees only their own category of dak, on their own office's chain. Adding Legal, Engineering or Accounting at the AHQ, the State Office or SCI needs new users, not new code — and a new department is a line in the registry.

Office-instance scoping

Each dak belongs to a specific reporting line, so an office sees only its own dak — not everything at its level. The same rule holds in every zone.

L — the marker

A dak is created from a topic, and takes its marker from that: L correspondence · C a circular. A form carries F and its own form number. So L or C is a dak, F is a form — never ambiguous.

260908 — the date

Written YYMMDD — reading almost as before, but sorting correctly in every list and report.

0238 — the running number

Unique across India for that date, from one national counter serving dak and forms alike, not counted per office. Counted per office, the same number would exist in several areas on one day and would identify nothing.

L-260908-0238 a dak — correspondence

C-260908-0233 a dak — a circular

F52-260908-0237 an SCI-52 record

F02-260415-0087 an SCI-02 record

Issued once, at submission, and never changed — not when the dak moves onward, not when it is returned for correction, not when it is filed. A form binds to a dak without either number altering: a dak carrying three forms carries four numbers in all, its own and one for each form, each identifying a different thing.

Reply and forward — with copies

- Write back, or hand it on. An office that finds a discrepancy replies to whoever sent it; an office that is satisfied forwards it onward. Both carry a message.
- The dak's own route decides who may receive it. Back to an office it has already passed, or onward to the next one. A direction the route does not allow is not offered at all.
- Copies inform; they do not move the dak. A peer may be marked a copy — they can read it and the whole exchange, but cannot act, and it never enters their pending list.
- The exchange stays with the dak. To and fro, in one thread, each message named to its office and its writer.

A one-time code has been sent to your registered email or mobile. One code approves the whole selection.

DHS · R1

10 · One verification

Approval is verified — by a one-time code (OTP)

Approval is confirmed at the moment it is given — a one-time code to the authority's registered email or mobile — not merely a prior sign-in. One code can cover a whole batch.

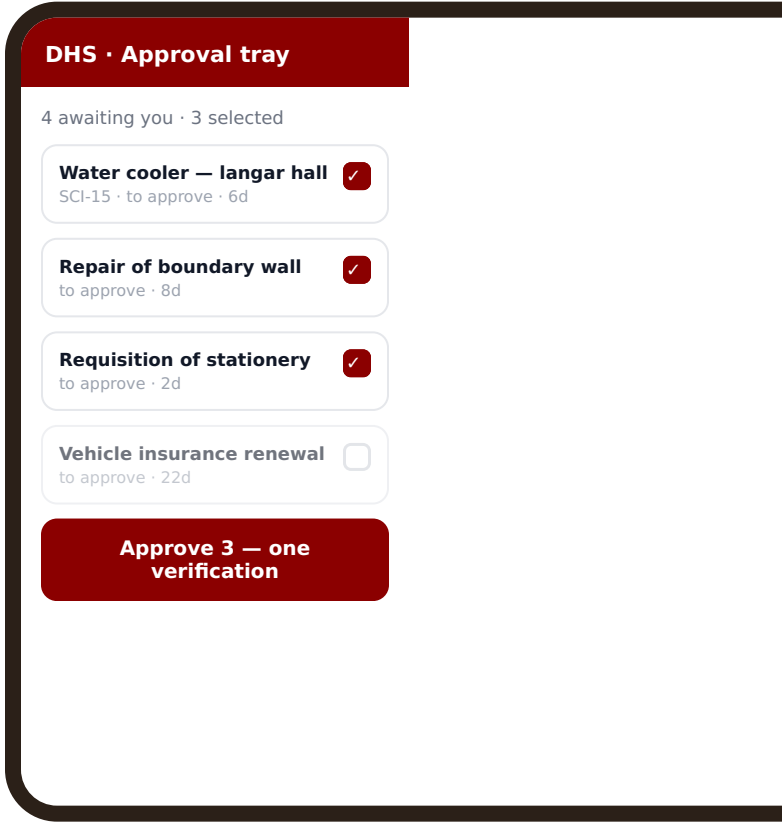

One-time code

639•••

Delivery — email or mobile — is set with the authority's account.

Mobile approval tray

- The same one-verification flow, in the hand. An authority away from the desk can clear a tray of dak on a phone.
- Select, then one code. Tick the items, verify once, and all are approved together.
- Approval still verified. The one-time code goes to the registered email or mobile — the safeguard travels with the authority.

The whole system on a phone

- Not a separate app. The same system, reflowed. Nothing is left out and nothing has to be maintained twice.
- The menu folds away. A top bar with the hamburger; the sidebar slides over when called.
- Listings become cards. Dak number and status on one line, the subject on its own, place and area beneath — with the actions always visible, since there is no hover on a phone.
- Everything else stacks. Two-pane reading, reports, the compose panel and the registers each drop to one column; wide tables scroll.

Confidential & peer communication

- Up, down or sideways. General correspondence can go one level up, one down, or to a peer office.
- Confidential when needed. A confidential letter is kept out of office-wide lists, searches and reports — seen only by those entitled.
- Peer letters stay open. Confidential is disabled for peer-to-peer, by rule.

A form is numbered on the same register as everything else. When it is attached, the dak takes that number — one item, one number.

PDF

Forms follow the official SCI format and are available as PDF downloads for print and record.

Edit-lock lifecycle

Once the next level recommends & forwards, the form locks hard. The only way back: a higher authority marks it editable while reverting to the raiser for correction — the exception, made explicit.

Filled for the screen, printed as the official sheet

- Two jobs, two layouts. Entry is built for entry — dropdowns, pickers, pre-population, and it works on a phone. The sheet is built to be exact.
- The sheet reproduces the stationery. SCI-15 and SCI-52 landscape, SCI-02 portrait, with the device, the form number, the ruled tables and the signature blocks where they belong.
- Side by side, so nothing is filled blind. The sheet redraws as each field is keyed; open it at actual size to read the small print.
- Only the sheet is printed. It is what downloads as PDF and what opens from a dak — so what you check is what Beas receives.

The offer's nature and value decide who approves

- Nothing is approved at Satsang Place or Area. Those offices raise and recommend; the decision sits above them.
- Each item is capital or revenue. An offer of mixed items is totalled separately for each nature.
- The higher requirement governs. Where both natures are present, the dak goes to whichever office the stricter limit demands.
- Above the Zonal limit is open. The limits given to us stop at the Zonal Office. What is approved beyond that is to be confirmed with Beas — the prototype routes it to SCI provisionally.
- It settles as you type. The approving office on the letter changes the moment a cost is keyed.

How a dak reaches the Calendar

An action-by date

Carried on the dak itself, set by the office holding it or by the raiser. It shows on the Calendar of whoever holds it, and counts on the register and in escalation.

A reminder you set

Personal. It comes up on your Calendar on the day you choose, with your note. Nobody else sees it.

Held back

The same reminder, with one tick added: keep it out of my pending list until then. The dak still sits with your office and the clock still runs.

Snooze used to be a separate action, and we removed it. It set a date just as a reminder does, but quietly cleared the item from an officer’s list while the office stayed accountable — a list that looked healthier than the office was. It is now a tick on the reminder, so the hiding is a visible choice rather than a feature of its own.

Nothing else places a dak on the Calendar. The month shows action-by dates, overdue ones, and your own reminders in separate marks.

An approval writes its own papers

An Approval Letter

The instrument handed to the committee — so it sets out in full who is appointed and on whose bio-data, who continues, who stands relieved, and how the committee now reads. It carries the stamp of the final approving authority. Nobody types it.

Duly approved forms

Every SCI form enclosed gets an approved copy. The official sheet is untouched, but its own recommendation boxes are filled in, and an endorsement page travels with it bearing the stamp of every authority in the line.

Kept, and open to all involved

Both are held permanently in Approved Records and can be opened and printed by every office on the dak's route. An office not on it sees nothing.

The letter travels; the form stays. The letter goes to the Satsang Place and is handed to the committee; the SCI form remains on the office record. Neither carries a number of its own — both quote the dak's reference, so one item still has one number. A refusal is handled the same way: a letter is issued saying the proposal has not been approved, with the reason recorded, and the form endorsed accordingly.

The Approval Letter, as it prints

Generated by the system, not drafted. Because this is the paper handed to the committee, it carries the whole of what was approved — the appointments with each bio-data, those continuing, and the committee as it now reads — over the stamp of the approving authority.

Every authority in the line, stamped

An endorsement page travels with every approved form: one stamp per office — the place that submitted it, each office that recommended it, and the office that decided — in the order the dak travelled, each naming a person, a designation and a date. None mints a number of its own.

Registers — inward & outward

- Drawn from the movement record. What came in, what went out — serial, date, Dak ID, from/to, subject, status.
- Filter and print. By period, department, status, or a text search — printable for any period.
- No inward/outward numbering applied to items — the serial is just the register row.

What R1 demonstrates

Built & working

- ✓ Topic-driven routing, terminals, mandatory forms — all configurable
- ✓ Approval limits by nature and value, editable as settings
- ✓ Roles, departments, all-India offices, office-scoped visibility
- ✓ Dak Listing with the agreed columns, search, filters, reminders
- ✓ Reply & forward with copies, bounded by the dak's own route
- ✓ SCI-15 / 52 / 02 reproduced in the official format, with print
- ✓ Dak numbering — the dak from its topic, each form its own, unique across India
- ✓ One-verification approvals — desktop and mobile
- ✓ Workflow board, calendar, registers, dashboard, reports
- ✓ Light and dark, and a mobile layout throughout

Specified · later phases

- ✓ A single national counter for the running number, on the Beas server
- ✓ Excel / PDF export on the full report set
- ✓ SCI-56 stationery, on receiving the original
- ✓ Real authentication — the login switcher is a demonstration device
- ✓ User & access management agreed with DCC
- ✓ Migration of the existing DHS and DMS records
- ✓ Attachment compression on the Beas server
- ✓ Escalation on ageing thresholds

THE SIMPLE IDEA, WORKING

The topic is the engine — the office only has to choose it.

Everything else — the path, the approver, the form, the record — follows from that one choice. One way of working, for every Zone and the SCI Office.

Next: your feedback → tighten screens → confirm the topic catalogue and SCI stationery → phase-2 scope with DCC.
